SECTION B: Program report and reflection

1. Program objectives:

Keeping both academic and industrial projects going poses particular challenges. To make these jobs compatible, you need flexibility so that flexibility in advance and the university experience is very good to work in industry.

2. Program description:

Lecture by Mr. Baldev Thakur (Manager HR) Macleod's Pharmaceuticals: Macleod's Company delegate Mr. Baldev Thakur (Manager HR) in our School of Pharmacy Abhilashi University, Chail-Chowk, Mandi. He told about research and development department. It refers to innovative activities undertaken by corporations or governments in developing new services or products, or improving existing services or products. Research and development constitutes the first stage of development of a potential new service or the production process. R&D activities must be closely coordinated with the organization's marketing activities to ensure that the organization is providing exactly what its customers want in the most efficient, effective and economical way. Then he discussed about production department i.e. production is to turn inputs into outputs. Outputs refer to a finished product or service and inputs are the materials that are needed to manufacture certain goods. When a business completes this process they are able to achieve customer satisfaction by producing products that are ready to be used and fit for purpose. The production department is responsible for ensuring quality is achieved in each item produced. He told about quality assurance. This may be helpful to appreciate the role of quality assurance as including preparation of data for the qualified person for the purpose of batch release and certification. In this case, the quality assurance organization would then take up the task of generating portions of batch-related data to ensure they are available through appropriate reporting systems as well as parallel so as to guarantee the functionality of standard quality systems. He discussed about quality control department. The term quality control refers to the sum of all procedures undertaken to ensure the identity and purity of a particular pharmaceutical. Such procedures may range from the performance of simple chemical experiments which determine the identity and screening for the presence of particular pharmaceutical substance (thin layer chromatography, infrared spectroscopy, etc.), to more complicated requirements of pharmacopoeia monographs. He said, Macleod's offers dispersible, bi-layered, coated, uncoated, and enteric coated tablets; hard and soft gelatin capsules; dry powder injections and syrups; and granules and liquid orals. The company provides products in various therapeutic groups, such as anti-infective, cardio-vascular, CNS, respiratory inhalation, dermatology, oncology, and orthopedics; and anti-TB, asthma and COPD, anti-bacterial, NSAIDS, malaria, HIV, anti-arthritis, anti-osteoporotic, gastroenterology, gynecology, dialeology, and CVS.

1. Program objectives

To provider to know the risk of disease, response to the therapy, and benefit from more targeted and effective treatment.

2. Program description:

Experts' speaker Dr. Kamal Singh Rathore, Prof. & Head (Dept. of Pharmaceutics), B.N College of Pharmacy, B.N University, Udaipur said that changes in medicine technology provide an opportunity for the patients and the healthcare provider to know the risk of disease, response to the therapy, and benefit from more targeted and effective treatment. However, then, the researchers and physicians need to have robust knowledge and understanding of the genomics and other fields related to personalized medicine. we will have to incorporate technology in reading and research over time. This is the need of the hour. The field of science and genetics allows us to develop effective, safe medications, and doses tailored to an individual's genetic makeup what we call it today as "targeted therapy" which is either small-molecule drugs or monoclonal antibodies.

SECTION B: Program report and reflection

1. Program objectives

- Define the focus of your study
- Clearly identify variables to be measured
- Indicate the various steps to be involved
- Establish the limits of the study
- Avoid collection of any data that is not strictly necessary.

2. Program description:

Lecture on "Research and Review Paper" organized by School of Pharmacy, Abhilashi University, Chail Chowk, Mandi, H.P on 17th June 2016. Prof. H.S Banyal, Hon'ble Vice Chancellor was the chief guest of the lecture. Dr. Jyoti Sondhi, Assoc. professor, School of Engg. & Mgt. and Dr. Nitu Asst. Prof. School of basic Science were the speaker of the day. They discussed that, A research paper is based on original research. The kind of research may vary depending on your field or the topic (experiments, survey, interview, questionnaire, etc.), but authors need to collect and analyze raw data and conduct an original study. The research paper will be based on the analysis and interpretation of this data. A review article or review paper is based on other published articles. It does not report original research. Review articles generally summarize the existing literature on a topic in an attempt to explain the current state of understanding on the topic. Review articles can be of three kinds:

- A narrative review explains the existing knowledge on a topic based on all the published research available on the topic.
- A systematic review searches for the answer to a particular question in the existing scientific literature on a topic.
- A meta-analysis compares and combines the findings of previously published studies, usually to assess the effectiveness of an intervention or mode of treatment.

Review papers form valuable scientific literature as they summarize the findings of existing literature. So readers can form an idea about the existing knowledge on a topic without having to read all the published works in the field. Well-written review articles are popular, particularly in the field of medicine and healthcare. Most reputed journals publish review articles. However, you should check the website of the journal you wish to get published in to see if they accept such articles. If published in a good peer-reviewed journal, review articles often have a high impact and receive a lot of citations.

SECTION B: Program report and reflection

1. Program objectives

- The main objective of intellectual property law is to encourage innovation and to provide incentives for innovation by granting protection to inventors that will allow them to recover research and development investments and reap the benefits of their inventions for a limited period of time.

2. Program description:

One day Workshop on Intellectual Property Rights (IPRs) & Research Ethics conducted by School of Agriculture and IPR Cell, Abhilashi University, Chail Chowk, Mandi, H.P on 1st Oct 2016. Dr. R.K Abhilashi, Hon'ble Chancellor was the chief guest of the lecture. Dr. L.Raju and Dr. Amar Gularia, were the speaker of workshop. They discussed about Intellectual property rights help protect creations of the mind that include inventions, literary or artistic work, images, symbols, etc. If you create a product, publish a book, or find a new drug, intellectual property rights ensure that you benefit from your work. These rights protect your creation or work from unfair use by others. In this article, we will discuss different types of intellectual property rights and learn how they can help researchers.

There are two main types of intellectual property rights (IPR).

- Copyrights and related rights
- Industrial property

Copyrights give authors the right to protect their work.

SECTION B: Program report and reflection

1. Program objectives

The main objective of intellectual property law is to encourage innovation and to provide incentives for innovation by granting protection to inventors that will allow them to recover research and development investments and reap the benefits of their inventions for a limited period of time.

2. Program description:

One day webinar on IPR conducted by School of Pharmacy and IPR Cell, Abhilashi University, Chail Chowk, Mandi, H.P on 7th Dec 2020. Prof. H.S Banyal, Hon'ble Vice Chancellor was the chief guest of the lecture. Dr. Shivali Singla, professor of Pharmaceutics, Himalyan Insitute of Pharmacy Kala Amb, H.P and Dr. Biplab Sarkar, Prinicipal, TRAMIET, Mandi and Dr. Anil Kumar, Prof of Cology, Punjab University, Chandigarh were the speaker of webinar. Speaker discussed that ntellectual property rights (IPR) are the rights given to persons over the creations of their minds: inventions, literary and artistic works, and symbols, names and images used in commerce. They usually give the creator an exclusive right over the use of his/her creation for a certain period of time. These rights are outlined in Article 27 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which provides for the right to benefit from the protection of moral and material interests resulting from authorship of scientific, literary or artistic productions. The importance of intellectual property was first recognized in the Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property (1883) and the Berne Convention for the Protection of Literary and Artistic Works (1886). Both treaties are administered by the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO).

Intellectual property rights are customarily divided into two main areas:

- (i) Copyright and rights related to copyright
- (ii) Industrial property

Protection of distinctive signs, in particular trademarks and geographical indications. Industrial designs and trade secrets: Other types of industrial property are protected primarily to stimulate innovation, design and the creation of technology. In this category fall inventions (protected by patents), industrial designs and trade secrets. Lecture ends with the vote of thanks of Dr. Abhishek Soni.

Program objectives

Intellectual Property Rights

Program description:

Intellectual property rights are the rights given to persons over the creations of their minds. They usually give the creator an exclusive right over the use of his/her creation for a certain period of time. There are many types of intellectual property, and some countries recognize more than others. The most well-known types are copyrights, patents, trademarks, and trade secrets. The main purpose of intellectual property law is to encourage the creation of a wide variety of intellectual goods. To achieve this, the law gives people and businesses property rights to the information and intellectual goods they create, usually for a limited period of time. This gives economic incentive for their creation, because it allows people to benefit from the information and intellectual goods they create, and allows them to protect their ideas and prevent copying.
