Program objectives : To make women competent in decision making

Program description: Women make up 48.5% of India's population. Yet, their presence in key decision-making positions—be it governance, law enforcement or corporate leadership—is far from proportionate. The sole exception is gram panchayats, where Indian laws provide for women's reservation

SECTION B: Program report and reflection

Program objectives : To make women aware about her rights and celebrate International Womens Day

Program description: In order to live with dignity certain basic rights and freedoms are necessary, which all Human beings are entitled to these basic rights are called Human Rights. Human rights demanded recognition and respect for the inherent dignity to ensure that everyone is protected against abuses which undermine their dignity, and give the opportunities they need to realize their full potential, free from discrimination. Human rights belong to everyone, everywhere, regardless of nationality, sexuality, gender, race, religion or age. The foundation of modern human rights is the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR). The 30 articles of the Declaration was adopted in 1948 by the United Nations General Assembly, and over time these have been integrated into national laws and international treaties. The core values of the UDHR - human dignity, fairness, equality, non-discrimination - apply to everyone, everywhere.

Discrimination exists because of cultural differences, geographical differences, and gender. Inequality based on gender is a concern that is prevalent in the entire world. Even in the 21st century, across globe men and women do not enjoy equal privileges. Gender equality means providing equal opportunities to both men and women in political, economic, education and health aspects. For overall wellbeing and growth of a nation, scoring high on gender equality is the most crucial aspect. Countries with less disparity in gender equality have progressed a lot. The government of India has also started taking steps to ensure gender equality. Several laws and policies are prepared to encourage girls. "Beti Bachao, Beti Padhao Yojana" (Save girl, and make girls educated) campaign is created to spread awareness of the importance of girl child.
